

Who Can Apply for Federal Firearm Rights Restoration

Individuals

If you are an individual federally prohibited from possessing, or otherwise handling, firearms for one or more of the following reasons, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 922(g), then you are eligible to apply for Federal Firearms Rights Restoration (FFRR).

- Felons — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(1)
- Fugitives — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(2)
- Unlawful drug users — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(3)
- Certain mental health statuses — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(4)
- Certain aliens — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(5)
- Dishonorable discharge — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(6)
- Citizenship renunciants — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(7)
- Domestic violence court order — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(8)
- Domestic violence misdemeanants — 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(9)

Enterprises

If you are a corporation or entity that has lost its federal firearms rights, the Department will process those requests separately from the process for individual applicants. Check back soon for more information.

State or Tribal firearm rights

The FFRR application process does not automatically restore state or tribal firearm rights. Check with your local authorities for more information.
